

Paul Benhaim – Abstract

Cannabis in its various forms - with and without THC have played a part in the building of societies globally. Until not that long ago when most forms of cannabis was banned globally. This mistake is now being realised as a tipping point for cannabis products ranging from fibre, bioplastics, paper, building materials and medicines has now been reached. How did we get here and where are we going? Learn from a global pioneer of hemp foods, hemp plastics and hemp CBD products how everywhere from Australia, Asia, Americas and Europe are beginning to integrate this new understanding and progressive field into a new earth.
